Miller named radio stations' chief engineer

Stephan Miller has been named to the position of chief engineer of WCFL-AM and WLSF-FM. Miller, 36, is president of Lifestyle Productions, made the announcement. Miller comes to Lifestyle from Stannish Broadcasting Corp.

In 1978, Stannish hired Miller as engineer in charge of on-air operations for WCFL-AM and FM. When the sister stations were sold, Miller joined Lifestyle's team as chief engineer.

In the past three years Miller has restructured the AM and FM stations to operate separately or simultaneously. In his position he will oversee the transformation of WCFL-FM to WLSF-FM. The station which is now a noncommercial limited production studio, will be changed to a 24-hour, stereo, automated system. Miller will be in complete charge of the change-over.

A Valley Stream, N.Y., native, Miller has been living in Carbondale for the past three years. He received a bachelor of arts degree in communications from Hofstra University, N.Y.

To keep informed of the latest developments in his field, Miller is the secretary of the Society of Broadcast Engineers, Chapter Two.
